GA4000 Challenge Rules

- The true summit of all 32 peaks must be reached.
- No minimum hike distance is required.
- No minimum time frame is required. The peaks can be completed quickly or over many years.
- Peaks can be reached in any combination.
- No specified routes are required other than the restrictions listed below.
- Two peaks are partially on private land (Alex Mountain and Flint Knob). These must be reached on public lands only and it is the participants' responsibility to avoid trespassing on private property. Flint Knob can be accessed from Rabun Bald or via Alex Gap. Due to home construction near the top of Alex Mt in late 2021, it is difficult to reach the peak without crossing private property. Walking on one of the two roads to the top is now allowed. Use Bayberry Ln from the junction with Knob Dr or Wild Bird Way from the junction with Alex Mt Dr.
- There is a large parking lot near the summit of Brasstown Bald. Locust Log Ridge and Double Knob may be accessed from this parking lot. Brasstown Bald, Wolfpen Ridge South and Chimneytop Mt. must be reached by ascending from the base of the mountain, typically using the Jacks Knob, Arkaquah or Wagon Train trails.
- Each person participating in the GA4000 Challenge or attempting to reach any of the GA4000 peaks assumes full responsibility for his/her own welfare and route selection.
